Woman's Influence in making the most of the Family Income

The husband and wife who look upon marriage as a partnership and make a just disposition of the joint income, are making progress toward independence.

If the division is just, the wife often saves enough to insure the future, and tide over periods of misfortune or accident.

This institution especially encourages Women's Accounts and invites every wife, mother and daughter to come in and learn about our special facilities for women depositors.

GO-TO-CHURCH-DAY

NOV. 21, 1915

THIS, as we understand it, is not in any way an invitation from any one particular church. It is more general and universal. The two churches of Campbell extend an invitation to EVERYONE to go to church, the church of their choice—Irrespective of church or creed—Go Somewhere, and EVERYBODY go!

To all church members:—You have a job on hand. Campbell means to break the record for church attendance next Sunday, Nov. 21. Whether this movement is a splendid success or not, depends largely on you. The two pastors are doing their part: are you backing them up? Because of your church membership you are especially interested. How many of your uninterested non-church-going friends are you inviting. It is the personal appeal that is strongest. Whether they go or not depends much upon you.

To those who wish the churches well but are not members:—

Probably your good money helps pay the bills. Perhaps your wife is a member and your children in Sunday-school. Anyway tho' you haven't joined, you believe in Campbell's need of the kind of moral strength of character cultivated in the churches.

The fact of worship helps a man to resist evil. Well the churches specially want your help next Sunday. Invite those who are not interested to take a dose with you next Sunday for once and find how agreeable the tonic is! You know it won't hurt and it has done a lot of fellows good. Give the churches a big lift next Sunday.

To those who don't bother themselves about such things:—You doubtless think the churches may be well enough, but they don't concern you one way or another. All right for folks that are inclined that way, and good for kids, but not for you! Then its such a bother to slick up and go. No more for you than for the other fellow who does go. Do you ever stop reading and living long enough to think? Ever look up at the stars and question about their maker and yours? Ever wonder what part God wanted you to take in helping him about humanity? It's a long job and a splendid one, and every fellow can help. It's worth while isn't it? The churches try to keep folks thinking about these things. Can't get results though unless people go. Just try it Sunday. You can't imagine how much good it will do. Perhaps you may feel the same way as you start for the dinner table.

GO!

In trying to save himself from a fall down a steep embankment, the gun was discharged. The still lame he is gaining rapidly.

Celebrated 15th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Ralston Alison celebrated their Crystal Wedding Anniversary with a family dinner Sunday, and a party Monday evening. The latter was also in the nature of a "house warming", it being the first gathering of friends in their new home.

The first feature of the entertainment was the guessing of the names of the invited guests from pictures indicating a characteristic with a few descriptive words attached. So many had "perfect" papers that a cracker eating contest was devised to decide the winner, Roy Archibald getting the box of candy. Several hands of "Rook" were played, followed by a "Shakespearean Love Story" in which blanks were filled with the titles and characters of the author's plays.

Refreshments and music completed the evening's pleasures.

Mr. and Mrs. Alison were presented with a cut glass fern dish for the dining table as a slight token of the esteem and good will of their friends.

The invited guests were Messrs. and Mesdames J. C. Ainsley, D. H. Cramer, R. H. Hyde, E. R. Kennedy, W. B. Kammerer, H. W. Higbie, T. L. Mendel, W. I. Merrill, J. F. Duncan, J. D. Blaine, G. S. Robson, J. E. Palmer, R. G. Archibald, Milton Alison and H. C. Smith, and Misses Fannie Johnson and Mabel and Bessie Alison.

Jean Valjean Portrayed

The lecture on "Jean Valjean," given Thursday evening by the Rev. H. E. Beeks, D. D., of Stockton was decidedly meritorious and pleasing.

The Doctor's interpretation and presentation of this heart gripping story was wonderfuly appealing and he held his audience thrilled thruout the evening.

As a preliminary number he gave an original magazine sketch, "A Spoilt Fourth of July Celebration," which Rev. Lloyd requested, that was as delightful in a humorous vein as the main lecture was grand in a tragic way.

If the third number of this series proves to be as good as the first two, and it gives promise of so doing, those in charge of the course are to be congratulated upon their selections.

Local Debaters Lost

The negative team of debaters of the C. U. H. S. was defeated at Morgan Hill Friday evening, the decision of the judges being two to one in favor of the affirmative. Our team, Dorothy Feathers and Leslie La Montagne, lost by a small margin of points on rebuttal.

The debate that was to have been held here the same evening by the affirmative team, Frank Mendel and Edward Vandergon, with San Jose, was postponed owing to the illness of both debaters here. Campbell affirmative team met the San Jose negative team at Campbell last evening.

SEAL SHELL EGGS are not ordinary cold storage eggs. To produce this brand carefully selected Petaluma ranch eggs are treated by a special process which closes the pores of the shells—therefore the name "seal shell". After this processing the eggs are kept at a low temperature until placed on the market.

Technically these eggs are cold storage stock, but they are more carefully selected and more uniform in quality than the average run of fresh eggs. They can be used for all ordinary purposes, and give surprisingly good results.

MOROSE MAN LOSES FRIENDS

Serious Error Is the Habit of Taking Offense When Nothing of the Kind Is Intended.

Some persons are always in an uncomfortable frame of mind if not downright unhappy. And this even when there is not any real cause for unhappiness or grief, but when small offenses or negligences to which no second thought should be given are magnified. The more one allows his mind to dwell on these things, the greater he finds them. He views himself as being always in the right, and recounts the favors he has bestowed. These so occupy him he forgets favors received. With this disposition, a man seldom stops at nursing his wrong thoughts in his own mind. He talks of them to others, presenting the character of one with whom he is offended in a wrong light, thereby doing an injustice. He is so filled with bitter thought of his grievance that his gloomy face and dismal tone cast gloom on those about him. He becomes so morose that his company is disagreeable. Others, observing his disposition to take offense quickly, feel that it may be their turn next to irritate him. One cannot enjoy freedom of conversation when someone is watching for slights. How much better it would be in the first place to say, "He meant no offense," or "Perhaps he has troubles of his own that make him negligent." Better first look fairly at one's own conduct and see if every word or every act will bear being weighed in the balance. Life is too short and too valuable to be wasted in useless dissension. Think the best and speak the best you can of everyone. You will be the better for it and the happier.—Milwaukee Journal.

PREHISTORIC WORKS IN OHIO

In the State There Are Some Five Thousand Remains of Ancient Civilization.

On the banks of the Scioto, within four miles of Columbus, on its north boundary, stand two conspicuous examples of the work of the prehistoric peoples of that vicinity. One is on the old Flenniken farm, on the east bank of the river, and on the west side of the river road, about a mile north of the water pumping station and filtration plant. The other is on the west side of the river, three miles farther north, and is on the west side of the road that skirts the west shore of the river. It is on the Shrum farm.

They are mounds of the same type and of considerable size. They stand on level planes, from which they rise abruptly and symmetrically to a height of twenty or twenty-five feet. It must appear to any observer, writes H. J. Galbraith in the Columbus Dispatch, that they are artificial and not natural mounds. The owners of the properties have long placed high values on them and have not been disposed to permit them to be opened. As a matter of fact scientific archeologists are not anxious to explore these mounds, for, while they admire them as examples of the work of the ancient inhabitants here, they know from experience in exploring such earthworks that it is extremely unlikely that they would yield anything worth the time and labor it would take to make the explorations.

There are several less conspicuous mounds in the county that Doctor Mills, the curator of the museum at Ohio State university, would prefer to open, mounds that the general public would lightly regard, if indeed they would recognize them as the work of prehistoric peoples at all. There is a mound of this kind on the Olentangy river near Worthington that is hardly known at all to the general public that Doctor Mills has been watching for some time. "I know that mound would yield a rich store of treasures," said he. "There isn't any sort of doubt about it, but I feel sure that anyone who would explore the two Scioto mounds would get little for his pains."

Counting them all, big and little, there are probably 150 earthworks of these ancient people within the borders of Franklin county, and five or six thousand in the state of Ohio. No other state in the Union is richer in the evidences of a prehistoric civilization than the Buckeye state is.

You Can Get Rid of That Itching Rash

There is immediate relief for skins itching, burning and disfigured by eczema, ringworm, or similar tormenting skin-trouble, in a warm bath with Resinol Soap and a simple application of Resinol Ointment. The soothing, healing Resinol medication sinks right into the skin, stops itching instantly, and soon clears away all trace of eruption, even in severe and stubborn cases where other treatments have had no effect. After that, the regular use of Resinol Soap is usually enough to keep the skin clear and healthy.

You need never hesitate to use Resinol. It is a doctor's prescription that has been used by other physicians for years in the treatment of all sorts of skin affections. It contains absolutely nothing that could injure the tenderest skin. Every druggist sells Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap.

Real Cold.

An American and a Scotsman were discussing the cold experienced in winter in the north of Scotland.

"Why, it's nothing at all compared to the cold weather we have in the States," said the American. "I can recollect one winter when a sheep, jumping from a hillock into a field, became suddenly frozen on the way, and stuck in the air like a mass of ice."

"But, man," exclaimed the Scotsman, "the law of gravity!"

"I know that," replied the tale pitcher. "But the law of gravity was frozen, too!"—Tit-Bits.

HAD ORIGIN IN DIPLOMACY

Famous Phrase Which Is Often Used Has Been Ascribed to a Bishop of Milan.

"When you are in Rome do as Rome does," is one of the proverbs that are so old that their origin is lost in the mists of antiquity.

It is generally asserted, however, that it arose from the following incident, given in one of St. Augustine's epistles: "Augustine was in the habit of dining upon Saturday as upon Sunday, but being puzzled with the different practices then prevailing (for they had begun to fast at Rome on Saturday) he consulted St. Ambrose, the bishop of Milan, on the subject. The answer of the Milan saint was this: 'When I am here I do not fast on Saturday, but when at Rome I do fast on Saturday.'"

Burton, in his "Anatomy of Melancholy," speaks of those persons who are always swayed in mind and action by their surroundings. "When they are at Rome," he says, "they do there as they see done."

Lepers Allowed to Mate.

The Russian Medical council has given permission for lepers to marry with each other, but not with healthy mates. The Lancet remarks that as the birth-rate among lepers is very low, the percentage of infant leprosy is only about five per cent. But, it adds, "it is imperative that arrangements be made in advance, and the reasons carefully explained beforehand to the leprous parents, to remove at once any newly born infant from the custody of its mother to a distant home provided by the authorities where the child may grow up without danger of acquiring the infection from its maternal parent."

For leprosy is not believed to be hereditary, but the intimate contact between a mother and a nursing baby is the surest means of conveying the infection.

are under-size, under-weight

with pinched faces and poor blood; they do not complain but appetite lags, they have no ambition and do not progress.

Such children need the rich medicinal nourishment in Scott's Emulsion above everything else; its pure cod liver oil contains nature's own blood-forming, flesh-building fats which quickly show in rosy cheeks, better appetite, firm flesh and sturdy frames.

If your children are languid, tired when rising, catch cold easily or find their studies difficult, give them Scott's Emulsion; it supplies the very food elements that their systems lack.

Scott's Emulsion contains no alcohol and is so good for growing children it's a pity to keep it from them.

Johnny's Hyphen.

A teacher trying to get some small boys to understand the use of the hyphen had written "bird's-nest" upon the blackboard, pointed to the hyphen and asked the boys what the little mark was for. There was a silence for a moment, when up popped Johnny's hand. "Very well, Johnny, you may tell us," said the teacher.

"Sure ma'am, for the bird to roost on," said Johnny.

HAVE you counted your blessings and are you truly thankful?

Or are you one of the army of women who each year declare they "have nothing to be thankful for?" There isn't a woman living, or a man, who has nothing to be thankful for.

Those who protest against fate, who say theirs is a hard life, void of all beauty, comfort, cheer or anything whatsoever to give thanks for, are wrong with the world. Something is the matter; they need readjustment and a different point of view.

The peevish, dissatisfied woman who allows herself to be unhappy because she does not possess as much of this world's goods as her neighbor, and then says she has nothing to be thankful for, has only to go into a city hospital and there she will see many reasons for her own thanksgiving.

You mothers who have healthy children, strong of body and straight of limb, may be thankful that your little ones are not compelled to inhabit a home for incurable cripples.

You fathers who have kind, gentle wives and well-bred children may be thankful that you are not married to a shrew, a woman who neglects her home, her children, and makes her husband's life unbearable.

Every one of you can be thankful for the sunshine, the rain, the beauty of the hills and fields, the fruits of the earth that will appease your hunger, the clothing that keeps you warm, and, above all, for the roof that covers you. Many there are, you know, that have not these blessings. The blind cannot see the sunshine or the beauties of nature; the poverty-stricken cannot enjoy the fruits of the earth and warm clothing; the homeless have no rooftree to shelter them, and the cripples cannot feel the softly falling rain.

Are you, then, making the world about you more livable and lovable for some poor, disheartened mortal? Are you lightening his burden? Or are you in your selfishness making the world bleak and cold and inhospitable for those about you?

You can do something to help the unfortunate ones to be thankful. Perhaps you cannot give a bountifully supplied basket of provisions to your poor neighbor, but you can send her a plate of biscuits, or call upon her and cheer her up a bit. You can write a cheerful letter to a shut-in or take her a bright bunch of posies or a basket of fruit. Flowers and fruit are always welcomed at the hospitals; but if you take them there yourself, adding the brightness of your presence, they will be doubly welcome.

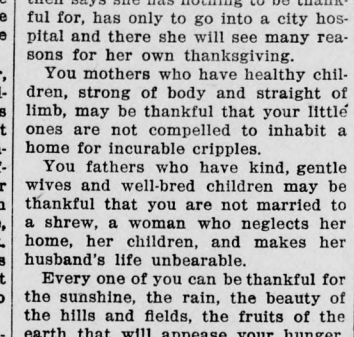
Do not let the day pass without performing some act of kindness or charity, lightening some burden or making the heart of some sad friend sing a joyful melody.

Be truly thankful for your own blessings and dispense a blessing wherever you may.

THE OLD TURKEY GOBBLER

Where I go Thanksgiving, Uncle's folks to see,
Was a big old gobbler, cross as he could be,
An' I never went there but he'd come around,
Struttin' so important, like he owned the ground.

An' he'd spread his feathers almost twice his size,
An' would look so wicked with his beady eyes,



An' he'd gobble-gobble, in the fiercest way,
That it used to scare me so I couldn't play.

But this Thanksgivin' saw the end of him,
When the hired man pulled him from his roostin' limb,
An' chopped his old head off, 'cause 'twas Uncle's plan
To put him for dinner in the roastin' pan.

I helped cook to pick him, though it was no fun,
An' stayed 'round a-watchin' till it all was done,
An' safe in the oven, as she shut the door,
I cried, "That old gobbler won't scare me no more!"

DELUGE BEFORE THE FALL

Recent Discoveries Throw a New Light on Things of History Long Thought Revealed.

According to a translation of a recently deciphered inscription on one of the Sumerian tablets, Professor Langdon of Jesus college, Oxford, says the deluge preceded the fall of man. The tablet which has been almost completely restored, contains six finely written columns of about 240 lines, most of which are intact.

It begins by describing the land of primeval bliss, which it locates at Dilmun, an island in the Persian gulf. "In this paradise dwelt mankind, whom Nintud, the creatress, with the help of Enlil had created," says Professor Langdon. "After the deluge this king is called Tagtug, the Divine. And this Tagtug lives in a garden, is himself a gardener, and the wise Enki reveals unto him wisdom.

"The Greek historians, too, preserve this legend in the story of Oannes, who rose from the Persian gulf to teach men wisdom in primeval times. And so Tagtug, as in the Hebrew history of Noah, plants a garden, names the trees and plants, and is permitted to eat of all but the cassia tree, an herb of healing par excellence. Of this plant Tagtug was not to eat, for thereby he would attain eternal life.

"Mankind until this time possessed extreme longevity, but not immortality. Tagtug, on his own initiative, takes and eats. He is cursed by Nintud and becomes a prey to disease and ordinary mortality.

"Thus in the original Sumerian story Noah, the survivor of the flood, is the one who eats from the tree of life. No woman is concerned in this disobedience, which resulted in our loss of perfect health, peace and countless years."

Dramatists' Works Published.

Foreign plays, the work of Dumas, Ibsen, Sudermann and many others, were obtainable both in the original and in translation twenty years ago, but the play in the English language was practically a forbidden book. Dramatists, publishers and readers whose tongue was English apparently thought that the place of the drama was the theater, and that to act it and see it acted was the sum total of its existence. To make a book of a modern play was in the last years of the nineteenth century an unheard-of-thing. With the advent of Ibsen as a world power in the theater came the change. The controversy raging over the Norwegian's head demanded the printing and the reading of his plays in English. Then Bernard Shaw's plays were published before they were acted; Oscar Wilde's appeared almost simultaneously before reader and theater audience. Pinero's and Henry Arthur Jones' came from the press after they saw the footlights. One after another dramatist followed.

Each Man to His Own Work.

There is an opinion altogether too broadcast that some work is delightful and lovable and some work not so. A certain great philosopher tells an amusing tale of himself. As he sat in his study working he looked out of the window and saw a man breaking up stones in the pavement. Hour after hour, as the philosopher set down words on the paper, the man outside in the street continued to ply his pickax. The philosopher felt so sorry for the man that finally he could stand it no longer and he hastened out to him and accosted him. "What do you think of all day as you keep on hour after hour breaking stones?" The man stood up, rested his pickax against his hip, spat on his hands and rubbed them together, with a broad grin, and replied. "Breakin' stones," and lifted his pick again. The philosopher withdrew to his study a happier and wiser man, knowing that each man gravitates naturally to the work he enjoys thinking about.—Delineator.

Banana Meal Industry.

The manufacture of banana meal or flour as a regular industry promises to be an effect of the war realized in Jamaica. The diminished sales of bananas have led to careful experiments, and a consular report states that in one of these 537 pounds of fruit yielded 138 pounds of flour, the cost being low enough to make selling at four cents a pound very profitable. Mixed with wheat flour, the banana meal makes satisfactory and nutritious bread and cakes that housewives are urged to try. For bread the material may be equal to or somewhat less than the wheat flour, and for plain cake or gingerbread the banana meal may be substituted entirely for other flour, the other ingredients being added.

Corncob Is Useful.

A new use has been found for the humble corncob. This time a Kansas farmer is obtaining wonderful results by burying them in the ground beside his muskmelon patch. The cobs retain moisture for the melons when everything else is dry as a bone.

Lots of Room in Russia.

Figures show that while Russia is increasing in population twice as fast as Germany, she has four times as much room at her disposal in Europe. Japan, whose population grows rapidly, has, by ordinary standards, little or no room for more.

MR. FOX VISITS JACK RABBIT.

Jack Rabbit had just the kind of an experience that Mr. Fox told him he would. In trying to grow a long tail by wetting himself in the brook and drying himself in the sun he caught so bad a cold that for a week or more he could not get out of his burrow, and finally he sent a squirrel to ask Mr. Fox if he would not come to visit him and bring some wisdom with him, for he was still too ill to go out, and, more than that, he was lonesome from staying so much alone in his burrow.

"Tell Jack Rabbit that I will come this afternoon," said the fox, when the squirrel had delivered the message, and early that afternoon he set out for the visit to the rabbit.

Jack Rabbit certainly was glad to see him and set out for him the best that he had in his home. There were bits of lettuce and a fine bunch of sweet clover, and, most delicate of all to the rabbit's palate, were tender tops of some celery plants which had lately put their heads above ground in Farmer Johnson's garden.

Mr. Fox made believe that he enjoyed the green stuff, but really it was not at all to his liking, and he was glad when the meal was over and he settled back for a talk with Jack Rabbit.

"He Is Weaving His Web," Said the Fox.

They were sitting very near to the opening of the rabbit's house and were talking contentedly when Jack Rabbit startled the fox by saying: "Look there at the opening to my burrow. There is something growing across it."

The fox looked and saw a spider industriously at work. From side to side of the hole he traveled, carrying with him the tiny thread, out of which he was weaving his web.

"Did you ever see such a spider before?" asked the fox.

"Never," said the rabbit, "and what is he doing and why should he come here to my house?"

"He is weaving his web," said the fox, "and a wonderful thing it is, too. No other insect can make so wonderful a fabric nor one so strong."

"How strong is it?" said the rabbit.

"So strong," said the fox, "that other insects caught in it cannot escape, but are held fast for the rest of their lives. What the net is to the hunter the web is to the spider, though the spider is more wonderful in that he makes his web from material which he himself supplies."

As the fox and the rabbit watched the spider he completed his web and retired to one corner, where he rested.

"See," said the rabbit, "he has covered the whole of the entrance to my house and we are both prisoners within."

Just then a beetle walked lumberingly up to the opening, intending, it appeared, to go out into the sunshine for a little while. As he tried to go out he ran suddenly against the web and stopped. Hunt where he would there was no opening by which he might get out of the burrow. Next a bumblebee buzzed along the ground and, seeing the hole, thought he would like to visit the rabbit's house, but when he came to the web it stopped him and he flew away disappointed.

Jack Rabbit began to get alarmed.

"How am I to get out?" he asked the fox. "And if I am imprisoned here I shall starve to death."

"Do not be alarmed," said the fox. "You are about to learn a lesson that ought to serve you all through your life. You have seen the beetle and the bumblebee trying to break the spider's web in vain. You have seen them try once and, not succeeding, have seen them give up the task. But what seemed impossible to them is really not hard at all. I have enjoyed the afternoon with you very much. I hope that you are on the way to being well again and now I must be going."

The rabbit watched carefully as the fox went toward the entrance, expecting to see him unable to break through the web and go into the open field. But when the fox reached the web he walked straight through without the least trouble. Jack Rabbit was much surprised, but not too surprised to call to the fox. "Mr. Fox, you have forgotten to tell me the wisdom you were to teach me today."

"No, indeed," said the fox, "I have not forgotten. Instead, I have just given you an example of wisdom which will be of great service to you to know, which is that nothing is ever so hard as it seems."

MYSTERY PARTY IS AMUSING

While Weird Story Is Being Related Candles Go Out to the Amazement of Children Present.

If you are looking for some form of novel entertainment, give a mystery party. Not long ago a hostess entertained at a party which was a great success. She led us into a darkened room, and, when all were seated, she brought in a shingle on which were placed three candles. This shingle was set on a low table, in full view of all, and the candles were lighted.

When all was quiet, she began a weird ghost story, in the weirdest part of which the first candle went out; in a few minutes more the second candle went out, to the increased amazement of the spectators. When the story reached its thrilling climax and the third candle mysteriously went out, there was a rush for the door, and the hostess felt that her scheme was a success.

The candle extinguishing is easily explained. The wick of each had been previously cut, and each was cut a different distance from the top of the candle. This is done with a sharp knife, and the two pieces of the candle are then pressed together, so that the cut cannot be detected. If any difficulty is found in making the two parts stick together, it is overcome very simply by heating the wax very slightly before replacing.

ROBIN DEVOURS MANY WORMS

Little Songster Includes in His Daily Menu White Grubs, Beetles, Wasps, Moths, Ants, Etc.

Could you, upon demand, with your eyes closed, recall to mind, and describe accurately enough for identification purposes, Robin Redbreast, the cheerful companion of everybody, everywhere?

Put to the test at a dinner recently not one of the diners could depict Mr. Redbreast in a way to set him apart from his bird fellows. And yet, Robin is the most common and familiar of our birds, recommended by ornithologists as a convenient size for comparison with other natives of birddom. His clear song is held up to the beginner in bird study as a standard of comparison by which the student may learn to distinguish the songs of other species.

If you have any sentiment left in your soul, at the mention of his magic name you will fly away with Robin Redbreast to the land of your lost youth, where old-fashioned sweet-smelling posies bloom in the dooryard, and on the limb of the old apple tree, close by the open window, you will hear him persistently calling again and again—far too early in the morning—"Cheerily-cheerup, cheerily-cheerup."

Is he not worth saving for his beauty and good cheer, alone?

Besides being a general good fellow Robin is a most useful and industrious citizen. Mrs. Robin demands very fine grasses with which to line her cozy nest, and when the baby Robins arrive, they have such enormous appetites it keeps both Mr. and Mrs. Robin on the jump to supply their steady demand for fresh earthworms.

The Robins include in their daily menu white grub, beetles, cutworms, grasshoppers, crickets, moths, ants, wasps, caterpillars, larvae of the gipsy-moth, the brown-tail moth, the forest-tent moth, canker-worms, leaf-eating and wood-boring beetles, wireworms and army-worms. It has been noted that when Robins are scarce, the army-worm advances, and on the coming of numbers of the Robins the army-worm disappears.

Most laborers ask more than board and lodging for their toil. For all his useful services (for which Robin only asks food and shelter, and hustles these for himself) some selfish and ungrateful folk begrudge the faithful little worker the bit of fruit he gathers now and then for himself and family. Uncle Sam is authority for the statement that the industrious American Robins really prefer wild fruit when they can get it, and advises the man who wants his orchard free from insects, to allow a few trees for the birds or plant some wild mulberries for these profitable tenants of field and orchard. The Russian mulberries, which ripen the same time as cherries, are preferred by the Robins to cultivated fruit.

Children Like Bees.

Children in their teens can care for bees and will enjoy doing it.

Afternoon Dress for the Little Girl

A design in a dress and coatee for a little girl, which may be successfully made up in any sort of material is shown here. As pictured the dress is of Irish poplin with a border of ottoman silk in a wide bias band about the bottom of the skirt, and a jacket of the same silk as the band. But the model is just as well adapted to many of the new cotton fabrics. It might be developed in cotton gaberdine for the dress, and cotton corduroy for the jacket, in any of the light, staple colors that these new fabrics are made in.

As shown in the picture the skirt is set on to a belt of the poplin which is also the belt of the plain bodice. The bodice has a small yoke, opening at the neck in a shallow "V" and finished with little, buttonholed scallops.

The coat is cut with long shoulders and short sleeves and is lined with the poplin. This is used also for the turnback cuffs and collar and appears in a piping about the edges of the little garment. Small pink frogs form the single fastening. A girdle is worn with the dress.

Among other pretty models for the little miss are full skirts of plaid material confined at the waist with several rows of shirring and set onto a plain belt of the plaid. Wide suspenders made also of the plaid material are set onto the belt. Such skirts are finished with a plain, three-inch hem and are only moderately wide. They are worn over thin blouses made of batiste or organdie or other sheer material. Short top coats or jackets of plain woolen goods, matching the dominant color in the plaid skirt, are worn with them. Together they make a smart looking outfit for the little girl.

Showing the Direction of the Millinery Wind

Here are two pretty dress hats which show which way the millinery wind blows. As to trimming it points to simplicity, but as to shape it continues to blow "every which way." In materials hatters' plush, velours and combinations of velvet with other materials are in steady demand and such combinations appear in these two hats.

At the top the picturesque shape is of velvet and plush, the velvet appearing on the upper brim and in a wide flange against the plush facing. The top crown is of velvet. A wide, handsome faille ribbon is laid in folds about the side crown and the ends are joined at the right of the front. Here an odd feather ornament is posed at an equally odd angle. Sprays of fine feathers, which look like frost-covered twigs, spring from a big cabochon of feathers and dance in every breeze that blows. At the left a ball and tassel of silk, fastened against the crown, give this model more than the usual allowance of ornament.

The brim in this shape is very irregular and the crown is eccentric in shape but both are made on good and becoming lines. Such shapes are not universally becoming, but when they do suit the face, they seem made especially for the wearers.

Below is a French sailor with the brim widened at the left front, which is an indication of the privilege accorded to brim by the mode. They do all sorts of unexpected things. The brim is of hatters' plush faced with velvet and has a narrow velvet binding. The top crown is soft and of velvet.

This hat, becoming to almost every face, has a band of the new, brilliant flitter-jet about the side crown. The sequins are small and set very thick, overlapping one another in a mass of brilliant scales. Two long "feelers" spring from a small oblong body of the flitter-jet, the little sequins or spangles extending a little way on each one. Two of the odd, stiff ornaments are set at the back—one on each side of it. The hat would be prettier without these, and measured by the season's standards would be amply trimmed.

SKIM MILK AS FOOD

ECONOMICAL SOURCE OF NOURISHMENT MANY OVERLOOK.

Butterfat the Only Nutrient in Whole Milk That Is Lacking in Skim Milk—Extremely Valuable in Cooking.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The possibilities of skim milk as a human food have been rather neglected, according to specialists in the United States department of agriculture. Butterfat is the only nutrient in whole milk that is lacking in skim milk; practically all of the mineral substances, carbohydrates and protein remain in the skim milk.

Because of the large proportion of the protein in it, skim milk, like whole milk, may be classed with such foods as eggs, meat, fish, poultry and cheese. Protein not only serves as fuel for the body—a service performed also by fats, sugars and starches—but also supplies nitrogenous tissue-building material. Two and a half quarts of skim milk contain almost as much protein and yield about as much energy as a pound of round of beef. A quart of skim milk contains more than twice as much nourishment as a quart of oysters which cost several times more. An economical and profitable combination is an oyster stew made with skim milk.

In cooking there is indeed little or no difference in taste between skimmed and unskimmed milk. In the making of cereal mashes, for instance, the use of skim milk in place of water adds greatly to the nutritious value, particularly by raising the amount of tissue-forming materials. In making milk soups, chowders, custards and cakes, also, it can be profitably used. In chowders the lack of fat is made up by the use of salt pork. The following recipe for corn chowder calls for no ingredients that are difficult to secure and will be found attractive and nourishing.

One can of corn or one pint of fresh corn, grated, four cupfuls potatoes, cut into small pieces, two ounces salt pork, one small onion, chopped, four cupfuls skim milk, one tablespoonful salt, four ounces crackers.

Cut the pork into small pieces and fry it with the onion until both are a delicate brown. Add the potatoes and corn; cover with water, and cook until the vegetables are soft. Add the milk and salt, and reheat. It is well to allow the crackers to soak in the milk while the potatoes and corn are being cooked. Some people cook the cobs from which the corn has been removed, in water, and later use this water for cooking the potatoes and corn.

In recommending skim milk as food, the fact should always be kept in mind that it has gone through one more process in the course of its preparation for family use than whole milk has—that of separation or skimming. This, in the case of a food material so liable to become contaminated and to be the carrier of disease, is a very important matter, and the consumer should take even more pains than in buying whole milk, to know that it has been carefully handled, particularly if it is to be used raw.

The provisions of the food and drugs act and common honesty require that skim milk should be sold for what it is, and never for whole milk. It should be plainly labeled as skim milk. To sell it as whole milk would not only be a violation of the federal food and drugs act, in cases where that law applies, but also a violation of the state law in any state where it might be sold.

Blackberry Cordial.

Mash the blackberries and cook slowly without water for half an hour. Strain and measure the juice. To each quart add half a pint of sugar, half a teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of ground cloves, and half a nutmeg, grated. Boil half an hour, cool and add a gill of brandy. Bottle and keep in a cool place. This is excellent for elderly people or for patients with a tendency to bowel trouble.

One-Egg Cake.

Cream one-quarter cupful of butter, add gradually half a cupful of sugar, beating thoroughly. Add one egg, well beaten, one and a half cupfuls flour, two and a half teaspoonfuls baking powder, alternately with half a cupful of milk. Beat until well mixed only. Bake in a buttered floured shallow pan, then ice.

A Dainty Hint.

The odor of soap that often clings to clothes is not at all desirable. A lump of orris root put in the rinsing water for fine pieces such as handkerchiefs, lingerie and blouses will give a delicate violet perfume more permanent than that of the ordinary sachet.

Peaches and Rice.

Arrange a mound of boiled rice in the middle of a dish. Have ready on the ice some sliced, sweetened peaches. Put the peaches around the rice and pour their juice, formed with sugar, over the mound and rice.

When Hanging Curtains.

Curtains are easily run on brass rods if a thimble is first placed on the end of the rod.

Peaches and Oranges.

For a tempting dessert, slice together peaches and oranges. Sweeten slightly and serve very cold.

Methodist Church Notes

Twelve pastors were present at the Epworth League Rally at Palo Alto Tuesday evening, showing their great interest in the young people. There were representatives from all the leagues of the valley except two. We had seventeen from Campbell. Sunnyvale won the banner, and they deserve it for they have been working hard to that end for many months.

There is a call for all the Christmas committees to meet at the church Saturday evening at 7 o'clock. The chairman of each committee has a list of the members of his committee and should get them together.

This is GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY in Campbell. The date has been fully announced; cards have been issued inviting everybody to come to church and the two pastors are out together calling the people to the Sunday services in the church of their choice. Come to Church. This will be a good time also to visit the Sunday schools and the yonng people's meetings. Miss Phebe Farly will lead our League meeting.

The union Thanksgiving service will be held Wednesday evening at the Congregational church, the Methodist pastor preaching the sermon.

The first quarterly conference for the present year will be held at the church Saturday evening, Nov. 27th, and Dr. Stephens will preach the following day.

Yes, the preacher thoroughly enjoyed hearing others last Sunday, and he's quite sure the congregation here enjoyed meeting and hearing Brothers Stanley and McLain.

Mr. Lloyd will conduct both services this Sunday.

Congregational Church

"The Friendly Church just around the Corner."

Next Sunday is Go-To-Church-Day at all our Services. Sunday-school; Endeavor and the regular Church Services. Let us make it a record. Special music both morning and evening.

In the morning the Pastor will speak on: "The Messages that help most." Some fifty men and women have given this Sermon to the Pastor by their answers to that question. Come and hear the result and your reply.

Talk to the boys and girls on: "The Chart."

Mrs. Roy Archibald leads the Endeavor. Topic: "Efficency and Service." She is planning a special programme for the C. E. At least one of the County C. E. officers—besides the County Pastoral Counsellor—will be present. Let all our Young People make a splendid rally for this meeting. In the evening—7:30—the Pastor will speak on "One Thing." This sermon will be a concrete illustration of the 50 answers handed in for the morning sermon.

If you are without a church home, Come we can do you good. If you want Church work, Come. You can do us good. A cordial invitation to all.

GEO. E. ATKINSON, Pastor.

Proposed State Peach Growers' Association

Meeting at San Jose Chamber of Commerce Rooms Nov. 20.

Peach growers of the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys are organizing a State peach growers association and report to the chamber of commerce that already $175,000.00 has been subscribed.

They expect to have $75,000.00 more subscribed by january 1st., when they will proceed to incorporate and place the peach crop of the State in a position to maintain a profit to the growers,

A committee from the proposed organization will visit Santa Clara valley next Saturday and will hold a meeting at the San Jose chamber of commerce rooms at 2 o'clock and invite all peach growers of the valley to attend and learn of the plan.

The growers of San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys desire the growers of Santa Clara valley to join with them, to complete the link of organization which will be incorporated when $250,000.00 has been subscribed.

All members of the Farmers Unions, the Granges and those without, are urged to be present and hear of the plan which it is contended will afford permanent relief to the peach industry.

Alden Kenneth Shell

Alden Kenneth Shell, who has been sick for the past three weeks, succumbed to an attack of pneumonia Tuesday. The little boy, who was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Shell, had passed his sixth birthday. He leaves three brothers Loyd, Hubert and Arnold, besides his father and mother, to miss his presence in the home.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon from the house, Rev. Geo. E. Atkinson, officiating. Interment was made at Oak Hill Cemetery.

The bereaved parents and brothers are extended every sympathy in their sorrow.

Mrs. H. P. Knappen and sons were in the wreck of the Denver & Rio Grande train in Brown's Canon near Salida, the morning of Nov. 13th. They escaped without injury, but lost a few of their belongings. Mrs. Knappen writes that it is an experience she hopes never to repeat.

Considerable excitement was caused Wednesday afternoon by the upsetting on the S. P. track near the depot, of one the heavy gravel cars which was partially unloaded. The gravel had all been taken out from one side, and the weight on the other side upset. Fortunately none of the crew was hurt.

W. C. T. U. Notes

On Wednesday p. m. at the home of Mrs. Clara Gilman, the W. C. T. U. held a reception in honor of Mrs. Anna B. Stewart and Mrs. M. Ringe, who are soon to leave Campbell for homes elsewhere. The pleasant rooms were tastefully decorated by the new superintendent of Flower Mission work,—Mrs. Alta Preston. During the business session a letter was read from the state President, Mrs. Dorr, asking Campbell union to arrange a meeting for Miss Mary E. Brown, on Dec. 13th.

Miss Brown is national superintendent of Curfew Law ann Policewomen. She has had charge of the World's and National exhibit in the Palace of Education at the P. P. I. Exposition. Miss Clara Pope sang a sweet solo accompanied by her sister Miss Elva. Nearly every lady present gave a bright, humorous conundrum. Written copies of favorite recipes were also given the guest of honor. To the disappointment and regret of all, Mrs. Stewart was not able to be present. Regrets from many members unable to attend on acconnt of illness nad been received. Miss Ingels made a presentation speech in clever original rhyme. Mrs. Ringe favored the friends with a delightful reading in southern dialect which was much enjoyed. A bouquet of choice roses accompanied by a message in poetry were sent Mrs. Stewart.

At the close of the program, Mrs. Ringe made grateful acknowledgements of the close comradeship and love which had been demonstrated upon her behalf upon this and other occasions.

During the social hour, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Pope served deliciously appetizing refreshments to which those present did ample justice.

The next meeting of the Union will be held on Dec. 1st.

Mrs. Goss at Rest

Mrs. Marilda Goss, who has been ill for several months, passed away Saturday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. W. Powell, death releasing her from her long suffering.

Mrs. Goss was a native of Missouri, crossing the plains in '52 and locating in Butte county, where she lived for fifty years at Durham. Her husband, Joseph Goss, died ten years ago. Of near relatives, the deceased leaves one daughter, three granddaughters and a grandson.

Rev. Atkinson conducted brief preliminary services Saturday afternoon in the presence of relatives, and Sunday the remains were taken to Durham where the funeral was held and interment made Monday afternoon.

Auto Accident

L. M. Buck of Cupertino, his wife and six children, narrowly escaped instant death last Sunday afternoon when the during car in which they were riding skidded on the Winchester road, near the intersection of Williams road and about a mile out of Campbell, left the highway, and capsized heavily against a tree outside a fence boundary.

Those injured were: Mrs. Buck, suffering from a fractured shoulder, several broken ribs and lacerations about the face and head; Julia, aged 8, sustaining three broken bones in the left shoulder and painful cuts on the face and wrist; and George, aged 5, and baby member of the family, who is not expected to live. Late last night, attending physician Dr. W. I. Merrill of Campbell, announced that there was a possibility that the child's neck was broken. All were removed to the Columbia hospital.

Buck in an effort to avert a rear-end collision with the buggy, threw the brakes on sharply, causing his car to veer to the side of the road, and plunging into the soft dirt, to face completely about and crash into a walnut tree.

Passing autoists assisted in dislodging the party from the wrecked machine, and a call was sent to the sheriff's office. Dr. Merrill was summoned from his home in Campbell and rendered first aid to the sufferers. Mrs. Buck and the two injured children were later conveyed to the Columbia hospital by Mr. Bettinger and C. H. Briggs, two ranchers in the vicinity of the accident.

Homestead 5265 Instituted

Orchard City Homestead No. 5265, was instituted Wednesday evening. W. J. Elliott of San Francisco, State Manager, San Jose, W. D. Whitehead, Hon. Foreman, San Jose Homestead No. 17, and Mr. Bassett, San Jose Homestead No. 4264, with other visiting members from San Jose and Los Gatos were present.

Jas. G. Burns was chosen Temporary Foreman, and H. C. Smith, Temporary correspondent. The regular election will occur at the next meeting, Dec. 1st.

A large class will be ready for adoption at an early meeting.

The Campbell Homestead will have a first class degree staff, a ladies' and a men's military drill, team, quartet, orchestra and dramatic staff soon.

A state banner is awarded every three months to the Homestead making the largest gain in membership during the quarter. Orchard City Homestead will enter the race for the banner.

The charter list will be kept open until two more meetings when it will be sent in and a charter issued, which promises to be the largest Yeoman charter issued in the state.

Arrangements are under way for a grand ball to be given in the near future.

Union Thanksgiving Service

Next Wednesday evening—7:30 at the Congregational Church Nov. 24. Rev. W. H. Lloyd will deliver the Annual Thanksgiving Sermon this year. Let us all turn out and make this service a bigger success than even it usually is.

"Merry Christmas!" A new fountain pen will make it. Smith has Conklin's and Waterman's—the standards.

BE CHARITABLE.

Before we pass judgment upon another let us stop and think if we have ever been placed in circumstances as difficult as his. Not always can we know his circumstances, but often there is enough apparent upon the surface, if we would but look for it, to make us check the harsh words that rise to the tongue.

Much Ado About Nothing.

"Those two women fell out about nothing."

"Are you sure?"

"Yes. They quarreled over their social standing, and neither one has any."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Fifteen Uses for Lemons

The lemon industry is a coming business in Santa Clara valley. In fact it has come and all who have planted trees are well pleased with the outlook. L. Woodard one of the prominent ranchers of this valley has begun a grove by planting 275 young trees in his vineyard. These trees which are a little over two years old now are already forming blossoms for the fourth crop. Many of these trees have an extra heavy third crop of fruit which is about half to two-thirds size at present.

Mr. Woodard is most enthusiastic in his predictions of the development of this branch of horticulture. He is taking pains in giving his trees proper fertilizer and the trees show the result of his work.

The following fifteen uses of lemons is a great boost for this fruit.

By Mary Eleanor Kramer in Maine Farmer.

1. Tough meat can be made tender by adding a teaspoonful of lemon juice to the water in which it is boiled.

2. A lotion of lemon juice and rose water will remove tan and whiten the skin.

3. Two or three slices of lemon in a cup of strong tea will relieve a nervous headache.

4. A dash of lemon juice in water makes a cleansing tooth wash and sweetens the breath.

5. Outward application of lemon juice allays the irritation caused by insect bites.

6. A teaspoonful of lemon juice in a cup of coffee will relieve a bilious headache.

7. Slices of lemon garnish fish of all sorts.

8. To serve Russian tea, place a slice of lemon, which has been rolled in sugar, in the bottom of each cup, then pour the hot tea over it.

9. Salt and lemon juice will remove iron rust stains from white clothing.

10. Lemon juice and olive oil make a finer salad dressing than do olive oil and vinegar.

11. Lemon juice and loaf sugar will relieve hoarseness.

12. An old-fashioned remedy for croup is honey, alum and lemon juice.

13. After the pulp is removed, the halved lemon skins make a dainty receptacle for the serving of individual ices, fruit compotes, etc.

14. Iced tea is improved by the serving with it of thin slices of lemon.

15. The juice of half a lemon in a cup of hot water, taken on awakening in the morning, is an excellent corrective for liver complaints.

Church Attendance

There may be a few hundred more, but it is a safe estimate that at least 4,560 people live within a four mile radius of wide awake Campbell.

That's splendid. How many of them are to be found regularly at church Sundays? Think it over after supper—you and the folks—and set down your guess.

Take a minute to ask yourself in all seriousness what churches are for any way—whether they need folks to make them successful—and whether your neighbors go. Of course YOU do, and like as not they'd say "Yes", if you asked them. Ask them in the same way you ask a fellow to go fishing, or invite the folks over todinner—heartily! and as if you meant it.

Try it for next Sunday—Nov. 21—and see.
